CUE & CO

Cue & Co of London's Parsons Green showroom and workshop displays the company's wide range of handmade kitchens, lighting and furniture.

The space is the brainchild of founder Charlie Borthwick and is set in the creative heart of a London district in which metal forgers, jewellery designers and sculptors work aside one another

SHOWCASING SOME OF THE BEST SPACES AND PLACES FROM AROUND THE KITCHEN AND BATHROOM SECTOR

– each with their own set of design values. Borthwick’s vision was to represent the company’s work within the context of a fully working home stretching over two floors of 6,000 sq ft.

As such, all the bathrooms and kitchens are plumbed in, all the appliances work, lights can be switched on and off and furniture is arranged in a way that it can be used in the right context.

The workshop is at the back of the showroom, allowing clients to see how it all works or how a particular project is developing.
